HERRIOT IS PLEASED BY CORDIALITY OF BALDWIN

Pledge To Co-operate Is Given By France

BELGIUM'S VIEWS

Premier Hymans Pays Tribute To Geneva Protocol

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Nov. 12.—M. Herriot has telegraphed to the French Ambassador in London asking him to convey to Mr. Stanley Baldwin his keen appreciation of the cordiality of Mr. Baldwin's public references to M. Herriot's attitude in the negotiations for the London Agreement and of his kind offer of support in the carrying out of that policy. M. Herriot also assures Mr. Baldwin that the latter may count equally on his full co-operation in common action based on respect for the treaties and agreements with the object of Anglo-French prosperity and the maintenance of peace.

ECONOMIES EFFECTED
(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Nov. 12.—The waning importance of the Reparations Commission since adoption of the Dawes Scheme is emphasised by publication of a drastic scheme of retrenchments during the next two months, reducing expenditure by 50 percent.

The plans involve evacuation of the palatial Hotel Astoria for comparatively modest offices; wholesale reduction of staff; and abolition of salaries for the principal delegates, who will henceforth receive retaining-fees plus fees for attendance and travelling expenses.

Nevertheless the total economies thus effected are expected to be counter-balanced by the expenditure involved in the multifarious new posts created by the Dawes Plan.

EULOGISES PROTOCOL
(Reuter's Service)

Brussels, Nov. 12.—In the Chamber of Deputies today, reviewing foreign affairs, the Premier, M. Hymans, eulogised the Geneva Protocol as the most practical and efficacious measure of protection and security, which, he said, had at last brought an Anglo-Franco-Belgian defensive agreement within the framework of the League of Nations. Belgium, M. Hymans declared, did not despair of the eventual ratification of the Tripartite Agreement.

LOAFER KILLED IN GANG BATTLE AT COTTON MILL

Watchman Hacked In Attempt To Resist Advance Of Desperadoes

As the outcome of a dispute between rival gangs of loafers in Chapei, a Chinese police watchman at the Ching Wei Cotton Mill, 31 Yochow Road, was brutally hacked with hatchets and choppers, and one of the members of the loafer band was hacked and shot to death.

Information obtained by police of the Wayside station, who investigated the affair, was to the effect that the fracas originated in the Oong Tsung village, on Kungping Road extension, just outside the Settlement limits. One of the loafers, Li Tsung-nai, set upon by a rival gang, fled toward the Settlement and into the cotton mill compound for refuge. Four or five of his assailants, armed with hatchets, choppers and pistols, pursued him.

The police watchman was on guard at the Kungping Road entrance to the mill compound. As the desperadoes approached, he attempted to halt them and prevent them from entering the mill compound in pursuit of their quarry. A battle ensued in which the watchman was knocked to the ground and ferociously hacked about the body and legs with hatchets and choppers.

Having disposed of the watchman, the loafers run into the mill compound and found Li Tsung-nai in the selecting room. One or more members of the gang immediately fired four shots into Li's body, and then all commenced hacking him with choppers. Leaving their victim for dead, the attacking party ran away and escaped into Chinese territory.

Li is known to the police as a member of a loafer gang. Shortly before he succumbed at a hospital to which he had been removed by the police, he revealed the names of three of his assailants. One man, a friend of Li's, was taken into custody by the police when he came to the hospital to inquire into Li's condition and failed to give satisfactory answers to the questions put to him by the officers. He will be charged with being an undesirable.

Russ Problem Must Be Settled, He Says

(Reuter's American Service)

Harrisburg, Nov. 12.—American recognition of Russia is advocated by Senator Borah, who is mentioned as a possible successor of Senator Lodge to the chairmanship of the Foreign Affairs Committee.

Senator Borah said that he did not believe that disarmament would open markets or that settled economic conditions in Europe were possible without a previous settlement of the Russian problem.

Referring to the American opposition to the recognition of Russia under a Communist Government, Senator Borah asked how, with every other large nation recognising Russia, the United States was going to help matters by sitting on the sidelines and withholding her moral leadership.

Joint Body To Make Inventory To Determine Belongings Of State

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Nov. 13.—The Cabinet yesterday approved of the rules and regulations governing the commission for the readjustment of the Ching Household Affairs, which the Foreign Office made public today. The Commission, the duration of which is six months, is charged with the duties of making inventories of the properties in possession of the Ching Household, determining which belongs to the State and which to the Ching Household.

Referring to certain adverse local and foreign criticism, Dr. C. T. Pistols Used In Stormy Debate In Mexican Chamber

(Reuter's American Service)

Mexico, City, Nov. 11.—Deputy Luis Morones, the most prominent Labor leader in Mexico, and another deputy, were wounded in a shooting affray in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday evening, when over 200 shots were fired as a climax to a stormy debate.

The affray began during a discussion on routine matters by two deputies exchanging insults as they were going to the lobby and toying with revolvers. Thereupon the agrarian leader, General Sanchez, mounted the rostrum and demanded that Deputy Morones withdraw certain charges. The Deputy refused. Meanwhile, friends of General Sanchez and Deputy Morones respectively left their seats with pistols in hand and eventually shooting became general. The Chamber quickly emptied. The police and troops arrived and found the Chamber and the neighboring streets deserted. They picked up Deputy Morones and another Deputy, both of whom are believed to be fatally wounded.

SUGGESTIONS ARE MADE ON LOCAL FIRE PREVENTION

Mr. Arthur M. Brown, Expert, Points Out Defects

THREE INITIATED

M. W. Pett, W. Y. Lee And C. Y. Nieh Are Elected

Shanghai's defects in fire prevention were pointed out in an interesting address given yesterday before the Rotary Club at its weekly meeting at the Astor House by Mr. Arthur M. Brown, manager and owner of Edward Brown Sons of San Francisco, a leading firm of insurance underwriters. He spoke on the subject of "Shanghai from a fire insurance engineering standpoint."

The narrow streets, the insufficient water supply for fire-fighting, the exposure of high buildings to attacks of fire were the principal defects which the fire preventionist discussed in his talk.

While realising the different peculiarities offered here by the settlements and the Chinese territory, Mr. Brown confined his observations to the area bounded by the Bund, Avenue Edward VII, the Soochow Creek and Honan Road, which constitute the real business center with modern buildings.

He suggested the improvement of the topography of the city with the co-operation of the municipality by the widening of the streets, the adoption of a code which will prevent the erection of small houses near high buildings and the increase of the pressure of the water mains. This ought not to require much money, according to the speaker, but will insure the progress of the city by removing the possibilities of an attack from the old enemy, the 'red enemy.'

The speaker is a member of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, whose work he described in introducing his address. The aim of the board is to reduce the fire risk and to ascertain the particular danger in each town regarding conflagrations. It has nothing to do with the decision of insurance rates, he said.

Mr. Brown paid a glowing tribute to the work that is being carried out by the local fire department under the direction of

HUPEH LEADERS ARE DIVIDED ON SUPPORT OF WU

Serious Differences Develop At Conference At Hankow

(Special Cable to THE CHINA PRESS)

Hankow, Nov. 13.—Hupeh military leaders who are in conference here with a view to determining their attitude in the present crisis are said to be greatly divided on the question as to whether or not they should lend their support to Marshal Wu Pei-fu.

The attitude of Chang Yueh-po, chief counselor to Marshal Hsiao Yao-nan, tuchun of Hupeh and Hunan, is unknown as yet, but he is believed to be trying to swing the Hupeh militarists into line in support of Marshal Wu.

The great diversity of opinion may lead to serious developments here, competent observes say.

WU'S SQUADRON IS SIGHTED ON WAY TO SOUTH

Gunboats And Transports Are Seen Off Coast Of Shantung

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tsingtao, Nov. 12.—Marshal Wu Pei-fu's squadron was sighted 125 miles East of Tsingtao at midnight last night by the Japanese liner Kasuga and the Chinese steamer Shungli. Captain Sakamoto, of the latter vessel, sighted two gunboats and three transports off Shantung Cape and recognised them as Marshal Wu's squadron. He reports that one gunboat entered Shihtao Bay. The other vessels turned southward towards Shanghai making eight knots an hour.

(Eastern News Agency)

Tsingtao, Nov. 12.—According to the captain of a steamer, which arrived here this afternoon, three steamers and two men-of-war, one of which is reported to have Marshal Wu Pei-fu aboard, were seen steering southward about 11 o'clock last night at a point some 120 miles from Tsingtao.

(Eastern News Agency)

Nanking, Nov. 12.—It is observed in Chinese circles here that Marshal Wu Pei-fu will possibly, en route to Wuchang, call at Nanking where he will have an interview with General Chi Hsieh-yuan and naval leaders.

GOVERNOR OF CHIHLI QUITS IN SQUABBLE OVER TROOPS

Rumors Of Discord At Tientsin Traced To Source

FENG IN PARLEY

'Christian General' Confers With Chang

(Reuter's Service)

Tientsin, Nov. 12.—The Rumors circulated in the city today that General Feng Yu-hsiang had been arrested by Marshal Chang are untrue. They probably arose from the disarming of Marshal Wu Pei-fu's units at Peitsang, which caused General Wang Chen-ping to tender his resignation to Marshal Tuan Chi-jui.

It appears that two brigades of General Feng's troops were placed at the disposal of General Wang Chen-ping on November 1 when it was decided that he should proceed from Peking to Tientsin. Before General Wang's arrival, these troops returned to Peking on the advice of Marshal Tuan Chi-jui. It was then arranged that General Wang should resume command of the 23rd Division, of which only one battalion remained. General Li Ching-lin discovered disorganised units of Marshal Wu Pei-fu from Shanhaikuan stationed at Peitsang posing as the 23rd Division. Consequently he disarmed them. General Wang Chen-ping resented this action, though the men of his division retained their arms, and today resigned. Marshal Tuan Chi-jui declines however to accept General Wang's resignation, stating that he had not yet emerged from retirement.

(Eastern News Agency)

Tientsin, Nov. 12.—On the ground that General Feng Yu-hsiang arbitrarily organised the 3rd and 4th Mixed Brigades of his troops with those arms which he secured by disarming the defeated Chihli troops, General Li Ching-lin, Commander-in-Chief of the Second Fengtien Army without any previous notice suddenly disarmed General Feng's troops at Peitsang the night before last.

General Li took the position that the arms should naturally fall into the hands of the Fengtien troops, because, General Li argued, they belonged to those Chihli forces which were defeated by the Fengtien troops as a result of fighting that took place in the district to the west of Luanchow.

As a result of General Li's action, many rumors regarding General Feng Yu-hsiang were circulated last night, some saying that he must have been arrested and taken into custody by General Li Ching-lin's troops, while others asserted that he had fled by motor-car to Peking. The fact that General Feng last night did not return to his residence in the Japanese Concession here seemed to bear out these reports.

General Li Ching-lin, since his entry into Tientsin, has shown indignance over the devastation to which his native province has been subjugated by the troops from other provinces, and has indirectly made a personal attack on General Wang Cheng-pin, Civil-Governor of Chihli. Besides, a portion of the members of the Provincial Assembly also have manifested an ambition to impeach General Wang.

General Wang yesterday removed his family into the Japanese Settlement and at the same time tendered his resignation.

General Li Ching-lin, on the same charge that was directed against General Feng Yu-hsiang, suddenly disarmed the 23rd Division, which Gen. Wang was about to reorganise, as well as his bodyguards.

Under these circumstances, for fear that he should be in danger of bodily harm, General Wang Cheng-ping ran to cover last night.

Later.—It has since come to light that General Feng Yu-hsiang, who for a time was missing, was secretly sitting in conference with Marshal Chang Tso-lin and General Lu Yung-hsiang, though General Wang Cheng-

American Dads And Sons To Chow Together Tonight

Shanghai Dads are going to try to keep up with Shanghai American School Sons this evening at the Navy Y.M.C.A. from 5 to 8 o'clock.

The occasion is the annual Father and Son banquet, a part of the Father and Son week.

The party tonight starts with a swim at 5 o'clock in the Y pool with fathers competing against sons in diving and racing stunts. The sons are expected to come out way ahead.

At 6 o'clock the gang adjourns to the chow room where a sukiyaki dinner will be served. Son is expected to out-eat Dad.

Toasts and songs will be the program from 7 to 8 o'clock at which time M. Malini, magician, will perform.

This week, November 9 to 16, is being celebrated in more than 40 countries as Father and Son week. The idea originated in a small New England town 15 years ago and has spread rapidly. The celebration calls for banquets for fathers and sons, hikes to the country, theater parties, competitive games and game evenings in churches, schools, and Y. M. C. A.'s. Boys away from home observe the week by writing letters home.

China is celebrating in practically every province. In Shanghai, the Chinese Y.M.C.A. has provided a number of events in schools, including a father and son entertainment in the Martyrs' Memorial Hall in which the dramatic club acted out the ideal relationship of the father and son of daily life. Saturday night in the Chinese Y.M.C.A. gymnasium, there will be a father and son rally with a program of competitive games and on Sunday many churches will have special father and son sermons.

This observance is in line with China's ancient idea of filial piety. The following proverbs from Chinese literature indicate the importance of the movement in this country:

"Filial piety is the root of virtue."

"It is possible to marry again, it is possible to have other sons, but we cannot have other parents when these are gone, therefore we should serve them with diligence."

"To serve parents may be likened to the man on a long journey with short candle who constantly fears the candle will go out."

"Parents must know how to love their children, and the children's love should be constant and everlasting."

"Heaven and earth consist of filial virtue."

"The sun and moon shine with filial light."

"To serve rich parents is easy, to serve poor parents is difficult; to serve strong parents is easy, to serve weak parents is difficult."

"When parents are alive, they should be served according to propriety; when they are dead they should be buried according to propriety; and they should be sacrificed to according to propriety and this may be called filial piety."

Admiral Tu Shih-kuei To Stand By Wu Pei-fu

(Eastern News Agency)

Nanking, Nov. 13.—With reference to the present situation, Admiral Tu Hsi-kuei, Commander-in-Chief of the Chinese Fleet, is quoted as stating in part:—

"It is expected that Marshal Wu Pei-fu will in a day or two sail up the Yangtsze River, but I am given to understand that he will not land here as he desires to proceed direct to Wuchang.

"During Marshal Wu's short stay in Nanking, he will have an interview with me and with General Chi-Hsieh-yuan, Tuchun of Kiangsu, who is now striving to effect an alliance among seven provinces in the Yangtsze Valley, namely, Chekiang, Fukien, Kiangsi, Anhui, Kiangsu, Hupeh, and Hunan in co-operation with the Yangtsze Fleet.

"General Chi will clearly manifest his real attitude before long.

"While I have no objection whatever to the assumption by Marshal Tuan Chi-jui of the post as Generalissimo of all the Chinese national troops, I am opposed to the bitter end to Feng Yu-hsiang and Chang Tso-lin. Taken from the viewpoint of both personality and career, Marshal Tuan deserves the respect of all classes of the Chinese people.

"As for Marshal Wu Pei-fu, though he was defeated in the battle, he should not be permitted to lose his stand for good. On the contrary, he should be given a position suitable to him so that he, with his ability, may be enabled to render services to the country.

"I should stand by Marshal Wu Pei-fu and I have no idea at all of occupying seat in the present Cabinet in Peking, though I have been appointed Minister of the Navy, simply because I have no desire to take part in politics together with such persons as Feng Yu-hsiang and Chang Tso-lin."

MUKDEN BUYING CZARIST MONEY; PRICE GOING UP

Quotations Rise In Belief Of Settlement At New Conference

(Eastern News Agency)

Mukden, Nov. 12.—Rouble notes have of late begun to rise in value. The quotation of ten thousand roubles' worth of the old Romanoff notes is at present about $55 while the same amount of the Kerensky notes is quoted at about $38. There is a tendency toward still further advances.

This, it is reported, is due to the belief that another Soviet-Mukden conference, at which details of the recently concluded Soviet-Mukden agreement are expected to be discussed, will be held, starting November 20 and that at that conference some concrete agreement will be reached as to the disposal of the old rouble notes.

It is understood that the conference is progressing smoothly and that districts which are to be defended by various troops have been fixed. It has been decided that the Fengtien troops will be stationed in the region between Mukden and Langfang on the Peking-Mukden line as well as in the district all along the Tientsin-Pukow line, while the "National Army" and the Shansi troops will remain between Langfang and Peking on the Peking-Mukden line and along the Peking-Suiyuan and Peking-Hankow lines.

Time to Start Winter Fires

THE setting in of colder weather brings with it an increased number of fires due to faulty heating apparatus and defective chimneys and flues. Statistics show that 7½% of all fires in the United States originate from this strictly preventable cause. Though statistics are lacking it is fair to assume that a similar ratio prevails here.

NOW is the time to overhaul heating plants and chimneys. Our Fire Prevention service is at the disposal of industrial and mercantile insurance risks in connection with the proper installation of new heating apparatus or the inspection of present plants. Good insurance advice may mean a better rate for you and—more important—may prevent a costly fire with its consequent interruption of business.

BOXING BOUTS AT THE ISIS THEATER SATURDAY, 3 P. M.

Benny Forral To Meet Felipe Flores in Main Event

As will be noted from an advertisement elsewhere in today's paper, there is to be boxing at the Isis Theater tomorrow afternoon, at 3 p.m., with a bout between Benny Forral and Felipe Flores as the main attraction.

These boys have already fought three times here, and Benny is the best of the two. Only in the last fight was he given the decision, but it belonged to him in the second also. He is not so much superior, however, that he is likely to have a walkover. Benny is more clever, but Flores is a fighter who is dangerous in the ring, and who earned himself the nickname of "headhunter" in Manila on account of his savage fighting.

There is a special event and a couple of preliminaries before the main fight, but none of these call for special attention. They are, however, in line with the admission prices, which are very low.

BRITAIN MUST TAKE LEAD IN CHINA, BELIEF

(Reuter's Service)

London, Nov. 13.—Reviewing the events in China, the Daily Telegraph refers to the attitude that might be assumed by the foreign powers interested in China.

The paper says that Japan's policy is naturally the most important, her interests on her special plane requiring special protection. A glance at the atlas, says the journal, indicates where those interests lie.

The Moscow Government would be well-advised not to take advantage of the troubles in China, the Daily Telegraph declares, as the least encroachment along the Chinese Eastern Railway would be immediately countered by Japan.

The initiative on behalf of the European States, if necessary, the newspaper continues, must be taken by Britain, who once again will have to champion the Western pioneers and insist on respect for treaty rights, the observance of which is as much in the Chinese interest as in that of foreigners.

Shanghai Musical Society Obtains Splendid Start

Shanghai's newest society, the Shanghai Musical Society, organised last June by Professor Selivanoff, well-known local musician, has met with such support and the original membership has been augmented by so many new members that some enlargement of the original program has been made necessary.

Professor Selivanoff's idea in starting a Shanghai Musical Club was to propagate music among the foreign colony of Shanghai who were at all interested. Two kinds of concerts were suggested, home concerts for society members and guests; and public concerts in some public premises. The home concerts were to be organised according to a plan of historic concerts followed by short lectures and musical illustrations (history of music from the early period up to the latest ideas.) It was also suggested that the most recent musical creations as well as those modern and classical compositions which had not yet been heard in Shanghai be produced. The plan further was to have a special school of music for those foreigners who could not complete their musical education in Europe or America as well as for beginners in music.

At the beginning, Professor Selivanoff was appointed president to head a special commission charged with elaborating programs, rules, and statutes of the future musical academy.

The society has elected Prof. Shirokogoroff honorary president and Mr. M. B. Olsufieff honorary secretary. The following have been elected honorary members of the society: Maestro Paci, Mr. Sklarevsky, well-known pianist, Mrs. Skyes and Mr. O. M. Green. There were also elected members Mrs. Gull, Mrs. Isherwood, Mrs. Godby, Misses Janson, Prof. Mironoff, Mr. Blom, Mrs. Sem, Mr. and Mrs. Lion, Mrs. Bersani, Mr. Muling and many others who promised their assistance and contributions to the new society. The list of members now exceeds forty.

In the near future it is proposed to give a series of home concerts for the members of the society and their friends. The programs of the first concerts will be composed of pieces for singing, piano and instruments which have not yet been executed in Shanghai. The concerts of historic music with lectures and musical illustrations will follow. These concerts will continue the work of Mr. Roschau and the Monday Club. It has also been suggested that there be formed a chorus under the direction of Prof. Selivanoff, to which members of the Society and lovers of chorus singing will be admitted, and this will be done in the near future, undoubtedly. The study of Chinese music will constitute another aim of the society.

Anticipating future development it is also proposed to collect a special library. Lectures devoted to critical analysis of musical execution and works will be given, if the number of members wishing to attend such lectures is large enough.

The provisory address of the Shanghai Musical Society is Honorary Secretary, M. B. Olsufieff, Esq., 668 Avenue Joffre. Telephone W. 1750.

EX-SOLDIER IS MURDER VICTIM; SLAIN IN HOME

Shantung Man Fatally Stabbed In Rooming House On Chekiang Road

Police of the Louza station are investigating the murder of Lieu Nyeu-toong, a former soldier, who was found in a dying condition in a house which he had been occupying recently at 890 Chekiang Road. When picked up by the police, Lieu was suffering from knife wounds in the neck and abdomen. He died early yesterday morning at the Shantung Road Hospital.

Other occupants of the house told the police that the victim was a Shantung man and that he had rented a room in the house about three weeks ago. Since that time, he had been visited at all hours of the day and night by many other Shantung men, presumably former soldiers.

On the night of November 11, Lieu had a visitor who remained in the house all night. He is believed to have been responsible for Lieu's death.

In Lieu's room were found a quantity of clothing, several pawnshop tickets, and receipts for four gold rings costing $182.

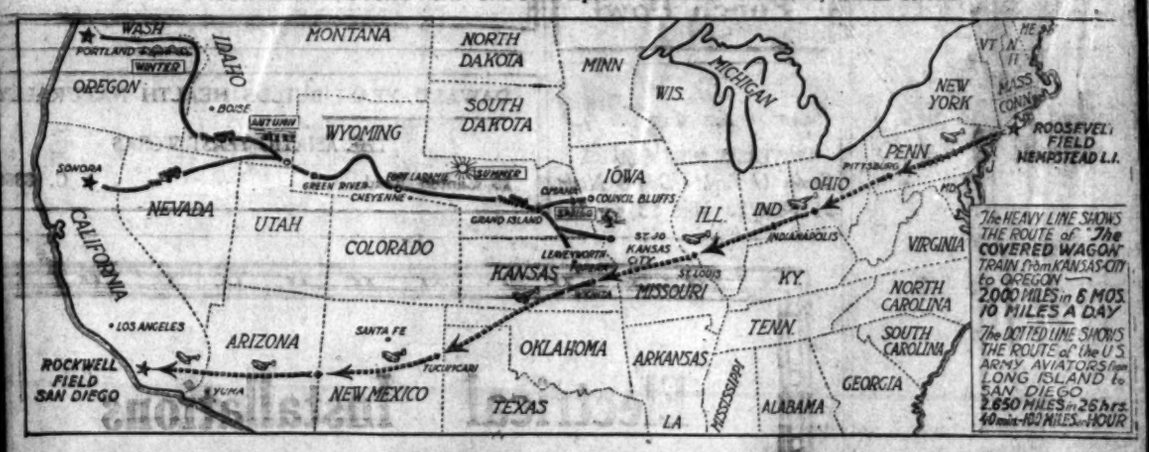
THE COVERED WAGON
A PARAMOUNT PRODUCTION
From EMERSON HOUGH'S Novel The Film Epic of America Produced by JAMES CRUZE



AT KANSAS CITY (then Westport Landing), at St. Jo., Omaha, and Council Bluffs the wagons gathered starting in the spring, when grazing was good, and traveling by various routes to—

GRAND ISLAND whence they started on their arduous journey across the uncharted plains. They dared fire and flood, hunger and thirst, battles with Indians. In the summer they passed—

OLD FORT LARAMIE and looped their way north and then south again to the border of Utah. Here the California trains parted from the Oregon pioneers, the latter trickling into

OREGON where the fertile lands awaited their ploughs. The gold seekers turned southwest to the newly found treasures in the Sierras and sought their wealth with pick and shovel instead of the plough

SEE the dangers through which they passed, the adventures they encountered, the hardships they underwent, their joys and sorrows, their labors and their recompense at

ARMED ROBBERS AT WORK AGAIN; YOUTH IS SHOT

Raids Are Staged On Exchange Shop And Dwelling; $450 Stolen

Four men, two of whom were armed with pistols, held up a cigarette and exchange shop at 146 Kuling Road and stole $250 in cash, according to a report made to police of the Sinza district yesterday. There were seven men in the shop at the time of the robbery, but all were overawed by the display of firearms and made no move to block the robbers or raise an alarm. All four of the robber gang escaped without firing a shot.

Another armed robbery was reported to police of the Bubbling Well District. Five men, two of whom carried pistols, entered a dwelling at 878 Avenue Road and stole clothing and cash to a total value of $200. An old woman, who was the only occupant of the house at the time, ran to a window and called for help. Frightened by her outcries, the robbers fled, and in doing so fired five shots, one of which hit a Chinese youth in the leg. The men made good their escape by running into a maze of alleyways leading into Sinza Road.

"THE STREET"

CINEMA

"The Street" is another addition to the number of pictures which provide a welcome contrast to conventional screen drama. It is an outstanding contribution to the film art.

"PEOPLE"

The producer, who made "The Street" is a man who can visualise words and can turn literature into picture. A man in a mood; a desire for this-for that-music-girl-is it fair? He has hit upon the highly effective method of presenting thoughts pictorially. It is a wonderful production.

"DAILY TELEGRAPH"

Without doubt the most significant contribution yet made to the art of the silent drama.

"DAILY EXPRESS"

"The Street" is the most comprehensive study of psychology yet portrayed upon the screen.—It is one of the most ambitious efforts in sincere realism yet achieved.

America's Position On Financial Assistance To "Backward" Countries

Dr. Arthur N. Young, Economic Adviser Of The U. S. Department Of State, Explains How Various Countries Have Been Benefited

By Geo. W. Missemer

Although in the present state of China's finances, not to speak of the disturbed political conditions, neither European nor American financiers are favorably inclined to the idea of extending financial facilities to the Chinese government, the time will eventually arrive once more when the matter of loaning money to China will come within the scope of practical politics. Although American investors, above all others, are at the moment—as can easily be understood—opposed to the idea of advancing money to the Chinese, the signs on the horizon would indicate that in due course American financiers will be in the forefront of those who will want to extend financial facilities to this country, for, as a matter of fact, American financiers have in recent years been lending out their money to nearly every "backward" country in the world except China.

In the meantime it will be interesting to note what America has been doing in the foreign financial field, and the subject has never been presented more succinctly than in an address delivered by Dr. Arthur N. Young, Economic Adviser of the Department of State at the Institute of Politics, Williamstown, Massachusetts, last August, copy of which has been furnished to the press here by the U. S. Consulates in China. As Mr. Young explains, the efforts of the United States to assist other governments in reform and construction have been misconstrued both in those countries and in the United States. Mr. Young further explains that criticism of the steps taken with a view to financial reform may in part arise out of a lack of understanding of the technical financial details often involved and a lack of appreciation of the necessity of applying severe remedies to meet motives for criticism.

MOTIVES FOR CRITICISM

But there is another motive for criticism, frequently, and on this point Mr. Young says: "It is hardly necessary to point out that financial reform instituted by enlightened governments is likely to involve discharging unnecessary personnel, the impartial awarding of public contracts where formerly there had been favoritism, the raising of moral standards in the collection of revenues, and the suppression of improper payment and corrupt practices. Such reform, for obvious reasons, may not be appreciated by the elements profiting from the previous state of affairs. It is most regrettable that occasionally even responsible American periodicals of high standing have, no doubt unwittingly, lent their pages to the circulation of untrue and misleading statements concerning the financial relations between the United States and other countries. In some instances it has even been stated or implied that the Department of State was endeavoring to impose on certain governments proposed financial arrangements which this Department was in fact opposing. It would be remembered that the Department of State, while as previously stated not a party to loan negotiations, desires to see avoided unfair arrangements and exploitation. Apart from questions of justice, this Government has a selfish interest in avoiding the difficulties certain to result from such unfair arrangements. Careless statements concerning the action of the Government in these matters cannot serve any useful purpose."

It is to be observed as regards the above that it is in China particularly that the remarks about financial reform resulting in the discharging of unnecessary personnel in the administration of the government particularly apply. In no country in the world is it so true as it is in China that the successful administration of any project, whether it be governmental, industrial or financial, is greatly hampered by the time honored tradition that if any one "in the family" secures a good post he is expected to help out his friends by distributing as many sinecure posts as he possibly can.

Although the conditions in China are quite different from those obtaining in the South American republics, there are still many points to be gleaned from a discussion of the loans which have been made to those republics by American financiers. The great objection which the American financiers have had to any proposal to lending money to China has been the prominent opposition which the Chinese have always shown towards any control of affairs, a point which recent events will make American financiers even more insistent upon than ever before. It may be of help to the Chinese mind to observe what have been the results in some other countries in which the American ideas have had a chance to demonstrate their practicability.

Recently the American Government, to again quote Mr. Young, has been enabled to render great assistance to the people of Cuba through the effective instrumentality of General Crowder. In 1920, the conditions in Cuba were well-nigh desperate, with financial depression, great falling off in public revenue, and a large floating debt. Cuba has been assisted in reaching a condition making possible economic and budgetary stability, and, with the acquiescence of the Department of State, has recently issued a large loan for the purpose of refunding a large part of its debt on very advantageous terms.

In 1907 a convention was entered into between the United States and the Dominican Republic providing for the issue of a loan and the establishment of a receivership of customs. President Roosevelt described in the following terms the events leading up to the conclusion of this arrangement:

"The conditions in Santo Domingo have for a number of years grown from bad to worse until recently all society was on the verge of dissolution. The previous rulers of Santo Domingo had recklessly incurred debts, and owing to her internal disorders she had ceased to be able to provide means of paying the debts. The patience of her foreign creditors had become exhausted, and at least one foreign nation was on the point of intervention and was only prevented from intervening by the unofficial assurance of this Government that it would itself strive to help Santo Domingo in her hour of need.

The customs receivership, which continued in force during the military occupation, has been of great benefit to the Republic, contributing to the increase of revenues, the substantial reduction of public indebtedness, and the construction of an excellent system of highways and of other much needed public works. The Agreement of Evacuation, which was ratified last month by the Dominican Congress will terminate the American military occupation. The plan of evacuation contemplates, however, the continuance of the customs supervision until the bond issues of 1918 and 1922 are paid off. Of the loan of $10,000,000 authorised in 1922, $6,700,000 was issued at that time for the purpose of refunding and for public works. The balance is shortly to be issued for carrying out additional public works and for other needs of the Dominican Government.

The Haitian Government, in the issuance of its loan of $16,000,000 in 1922 for refunding and for public works, was assisted by the Department of State, pursuant to the terms of the Treaty between the United States and Haiti proclaimed May 3, 1916, Article 1 of which provides that:

"The Government of the United States will, by its good offices, aid the Haitian Government in the proper and efficient development of its agricultural, mineral and commercial resources and in the establishment of the finances of Haiti on a firm and solid basis.

The issuance of the loan of 1922 is an instance where the assistance of the Department of State to the Haitian Government was of great advantage. The financial adviser and the Haitian Government, in consultation with the Department, worked out a complete plan for the proposed issue containing all essential details excepting the price and the Haitian Government was enabled to call for competitive bids in the same way as is done by American and Canadian municipalities. The Haitian Government was enabled to borrow this money on very favorable terms.

In Nicaragua a desperate situation existed in 1910-11. The country had suffered from a protracted and serious revolution following upon seventeen years of misrule by President Zelaya. The country was economically prostrate its debt was in default, large claims growing out of the revolution confronted the Government, and the currency was depreciated. A further indefinite period of anarchy was threatened unless something were done. The Government of the United States proferred its good offices, and with the assistance of this Government, Nicaragua was enabled to make financial arrangements making possible the consolidation of the country's debts, a substantial reduction in the interest charges on the British debt in view of the greater security offered by the collection of the customs under the supervision of an American expert, a liquidation and settlement of claims through the efforts of the Mixed Claims Commission and the Commission on Public Credit, and the reform of the currency on the basis of the gold exchange standard. The careful management of the finances effected under the financial plan has led to a great reduction in Nicaragua's debt, and has made possible the completion of the payment of the Treasury bills of 1920, leaving outstanding only the internal debt and the British loan. The American Legation guard of 100 marines is to be withdrawn at the beginning of 1925 after the election of the new administration.

In 1921 the Government of Salvador desired to borrow for the purpose of local improvements and for consolidation of certain of its indebtedness, but, having been unable to arrange a loan, requested the assistance of the Government of the United States in arrangements designed to facilitate the desired financing. The co-operation of this Government was sought in two principal matters: first, an arrangement for the settlement of any disputes that might arise between Salvador and the bankers, and, second, in connection with the possible selection of a Collector General of Customs in the event of default.

Accordingly, in connection with this loan, which was floated by the Government of Salvador in the fall of 1923, the Department of State, at the request of the Government of Salvador and the interested bankers, consented to facilitate the arbitration and determination of disputes that may arise between the parties by using its good offices in referring such disputes to the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, or, if he is unable to act, to another member of the Federal Judiciary for appropriate arbitrament. Also, at the request of the Government of Salvador and the bankers, the Secretary of State consented to assist in the selection of a collector of customs, who, in the event of default, is to be appointed by the Government of Salvador. This was simply for the purpose of facilitating the choice of an entirely competent and disinterested person.

The Department of State also in a number of instances has been enabled to co-operate with governments other than those abovementioned in the improvement of rehabilitation of their finances by assisting them at their request in the selection of qualified American financial experts. Thus American financial experts have been engaged in recent years with the assistance of this government by the governments of Colombia, Cuba, Guatemala, Honduras, Liberia, Panama, Persia and Peru. These experts, it should be noted, are private American citizens in the employ of foreign governments. They do not act as agents of the United States, but for the purpose of serving the governments by whom they have been engaged. Also there are instances where foreign governments have engaged Americans as financial experts without the assistance of the Government of the United States, as in the cases of Bolivia, China, Ecuador, Hungary, Mexico and Paraguay.

It would take us too far afield to endeavor to describe the excellent service rendered to the Governments and people of the countries mentioned by American financial experts, who have almost invariably served with distinction and reflected credit both upon themselves and upon the United States. In some instances American experts have been instrumental in preventing serious financial disaster, as in the recent instance of Colombia where a group of American financial experts, under the leadership of Professor E. W. Kemmerer, at a time of panic set up within ten days the new national bank which had been authorised by a law drafted according to their plan, rushed bank notes to Bogota by airplane, and stopped the crisis and thus restored confidence. Many other instances of excellent service rendered could be mentioned.

Los Angeles Wants To Develop Export Trade To The Orient

The possibilities for the development of an export trade from Los Angeles to the Orient are comprehensive in scope, according to a report received recently by Clarence M. Matson, manager of the foreign trade department of the Los Angeles Chamber of commerce, says the Los Angeles Express. The report was forwarded by Christopher M. Gordon, trade envoy sent to China and Japan recently by the Chamber of Commerce to investigate possibilities.

Mr. Gordon's findings on conditions in Japan, Korea and along the coast of China are extended and indicate there is an excellent chance for trade extension. This, however, will have to be accompanied by something more than mere offering of goods for export, he declares, and lists some of the essentials as follows:

A direct fast passenger and freight steamship line between Los Angeles and the Orient having Los Angeles as its home port.

Banking facilities to meet the requirements of our commercial and industrial enterprises abroad.

Better cable and wireless service.

A fuller acquaintance with and a deeper interest in the opportunities for profitable trade both ways between the Orient and Los Angeles.

Advertising in Asiatic trade centers of Los Angeles as a seaport and as an important manufacturing and distributing point.

More frequent and friendly intercourse with the east and as soon as convenient a business men's excursion thereto under the auspices of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

Freight Market And Coal Report

Messrs Wheelock & Co.'s fortnightly report dated Nov. 13 states:

FREIGHT

The situation in our Export market remains much the same as when we last wrote a fortnight ago, i. e. business to the United States via Pacific and via the Canals continues negligible but the demand for space to Europe is increasing although there are difficulties in moving produce from the Interior owing to military demands on the Railways which are considerably disorganised.

Coastwise:—All markets are quiet owing to the unsettled political situation in the North and though this is normally the busy season for Northern trade very little business can be expected under the circumstances.

Newchwang and Antung are expected to close for the winter about the 22nd. inst.

COAL.

Japan Coal:—This market has been very active since last writing and quite a large amount of coal has been sold to Outports, this has been brought about principally by the stoppage of supplies of Chinese coals owing to the hostilities still going on in the mining districts: —The market, both locally and in Japan, is consequently very firm.

Fushun Coal:—There is a strong demand for this coal also for the same reasons as stated above.

Fuchung Anthracite:—Stocks locally are almost depleted owing to the stoppage of rail connection with the mines and prices are advancing.

Kaiping Coal:—No change in the situation as last reported.

Cardiff Coal:—As a matter of interest we have to report the arrival of a part cargo of about 2500 tons of Cardiff coal per s.s. "Yoseru" on the 10th inst. although it is not for sale on the market having been imported for Admiralty purposes only.

Marshal Wu Pei-fu's Censor And The News

ON October 28 The China Press printed on Page 1 a dispatch from its correspondent, Mr. Lawrence Impey, then stationed at Shanhaikwan, which read in part as follows:

"Having full authority from the President to take all necessary action, General Wu pointed out that approximately a hundred thousand troops are now stationed on the front facing the forces of General Chang Tso-lin and that these troops are ample for maintaining the defense and thus permitting him to return to Peking with a punitive force. The writer, who personally inspected the entire front before leaving Shanhaikwan, concurs in this view since the position from Shimenchai to Shanhaikwan is strong,—etc."

The dispatch, of which the foregoing paragraph, was a part, was received by The China Press by telegraph and was printed in good faith for the information of our readers. Now we are in receipt of a delayed letter from our correspondent, Mr. Impey, dated at Tientsin on November 2 which proves without question that the entire dispatch was a complete fabrication, perpetrated upon Mr. Impey and The China Press by someone in Marshal Wu's press bureau. Marshal Wu's press bureau at Shanhaikwan was presided over by Mr. Li Sun-ling, a versatile journalist who has had much experience in official life and once was appointed a delegate, but did not attend, a meeting of the World's Press Conference at Honolulu. Since Mr. Li was head of the Press Bureau naturally the responsibility for "faking" or altering Mr. Impey's message to The China Press rests with him. We would hesitate in believing this charge were it not a fact that Mr. Li was himself personally responsible for another attempt to circulate another questionable dispatch, which happened in this way:

Shortly after Marshal Wu Pei-fu received the news at Shanhaikwan that the Christian General had taken Peking, Mr. Li entered the car occupied by the foreign press correspondents at that place and handed to each a typewritten manuscript addressed to the International Y. M. C. A. branches in Shanghai, Tientsin, Hankow and elsewhere in China attacking General Feng Yu-hsiang on the grounds that his actions were "contrary to the principles of Christianity." The dispatch was quite long and criticised General Feng most severely and called upon all Christians to disown him. The dispatch was signed at the bottom by "A CHRISTIAN.' It was 'Journalist' Li's intention to have each of the foreign correspondents telegraph this dispatch to their various papers in Tientsin and Shanghai and abroad and was about the crudest example of an attempt to deliberately mislead people that had ever come to the attention of the correspondents. With one accord they threw the dispatch into the wastebasket and left Mr. Li's presence in disgust.

Thus does China teach the world some new tricks in spreading misinformation, regarding a war. The censors during the world war deleted parts of meassages and held up whole messages which they considered to be detrimental to their sides, but we never heard of a case where censors accepted messages and then completely rewrote them to convey information the exact opposite to what the correspondent intended.

Mr. Baldwin's Speech

MR. Baldwin's speech at the Guildhall is disappointing in that it contained no definite statement as to policy, but rather consisted of a series of platitudes, which, with but few exceptions, might have been uttered by the spokesman of any of the British political parties. Undoubtedly the greatest need of Great Britain at the present moment is a continuity of government, and if the reverse which the British premier suffered last December, has taught him the lesson it should, there will be no repetition of wild experiments with the electorate which enabled Labor to come to the fore at the time it did. Mr. Baldwin has been provided with more than sufficient strength to conduct the affairs of the British Empire for a long time to come, and short of a revolt in his own party, which is extremely unlikely, the next four years should be devoted to the furtherance of those policies which have received so striking an endorsement. Fortunately, Mr. Baldwin's speech may be taken as an indication that all the resolutions of the last Imperial Conference will be reconsidered by the government—not only those of a non-contentious nature, but those others which the Labor Party refused to handle. That is sound policy. The British elector may to a certain extent resent the idea of his legislation being suggested by a conference of colonial premiers, but it is obvious in the wider view of things that if the Imperial Conferences are to be productive of any good, the results of their discussions must be translated from mere words into action. In an imperial sense any government at Westminster which does not operate with the dominions must be a failure, and in these days there is little room for failures.

One of the disappointing features of the speech was the absence of any definite statement as to the policy the government would adopt with regard to Russia. It is not supposed that Mr. Baldwin would now proceed to ratify the Anglo-Russian Treaty. To do so would be the height of cynicism. Nor do we see how it can possibly be amended to make it acceptable, without entirely changing the whole document, and possibly Russia herself will not consent to any arrangement which would give her less than she was to obtain at the hands of Labor. In the circumstances, therefore, it would seem that Mr. Baldwin will have to drop the present Treaty and an announcement to that effect would have been welcomed by those people who gave him their support on that score and also by a great many others outside of Britain who think similarly. And with regard to India he was unable to proffer any suggestion as to how matters might be remedied, but in its place suggested that, doubtless, with steadfastness and insight a way could be found to preserve the welfare of the peoples of India, etc. All of which sounds very much like "the above-named gentleman, playing on the aforesaid instrument," meaning nothing at all, and not even having a pleasant sound. It is not optimism alone that it wanted nowadays and Mr. Baldwin will fail if Micawber-like he waits for something to turn up, either with regard to India or any other of the many problems with which the government is faced.

It may be argued that the Guildhall speech coming so soon after the election, there was no opportunity for the Premier to have enunciated his policy. There appears to be no particularly good foundation for that, inasmuch as that must have been outlined prior to the election. All that was required, therefore, was an authoritative confirmation of those pre-election promises which helped to put him in power, and while we have no doubt that most of the pledges then given will be honored in due course, there seems to be little doubt but that Mr. Baldwin would have been exceptionally well-advised to have told the world at the outset exactly what was going to be his policy for the future.

Other Views Than Ours On The War In China

CHINA THE HOME OF THE TRUE PACIFIST

(Janesville, Wis., Gazette)

China is suffering from years and years—long centuries—of debasement of officials and a general system of graft which has come down from the days of the mandarins. Under the emperor, the Son of Heaven, who was a thing more of tradition than a reality, kept in isolation, had little power except with those in his immediate household and in his capital city, but the mandarins and lesser officials robbed at will, levied taxes at will, collected tariffs and fees whenever the treasury was empty and continued this system under the divided republic. Here the interests of bandit chieftains and the educated civil service graduate, ambitions for higher honors, clashed.

The Nation was not prepared. The very soul of peace reigned. No pacifist could have visioned a more perfect land where all defense was removed so completely as in China. They fought only for food and for their temples. To be sure there had been a sort of military police and the personal body guards of the mandarins and other officials, but they might have been mere secret service agents and much like the men who are constantly in the wake of the American presidents. Her army was a jest. Now, China with her untrained people, with millions of men and women who have been taught by experience to live on less than nothing, is defenseless against the attacks and looting of the armies of bandit chieftains ambitious for the greater loot of the whole Chinese nation.

Attila and his Huns, Alario and his Visigoths, Kubla Khan and his horde of Tartars, find themselves living again in the Chinese situation, with history repeating itself.

Anarchy is present and chaos must follow if China is left to its own devices and the people to their own peril. Once first in civilisation, now decayed and facing destruction because that manhood which comes from a love of country and patriotic devotion to ideals of its national life was permitted to fade and filter away and a new race that has never been trained to defend either the coasts or the homes, has come into being. The true example of what extreme pacifism leads to, is here displayed in China.

MORE ON THE ACCOUNTANCY QUESTION

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS:

Sir,—I have read with great interest your foot note to my letter of the 11th. instant, and to your enquiry as to whether it is or is not a fact that in the field of accountancy foreign-trained Chinese are gradually more and more filling positions in this line of work, my reply is an emphatic "no".

I use the adjective emphatic deliberately, for it must appear obvious to everybody that the local Portuguese community, being composed of a few hundred working men only as against thousands of foreign-trained Chinese, is not being superseded by the latter. A little statistical work will show this to everybody's satisfaction.

And if by some firms Chinese have been, and are being, preferred to Portuguese, it is simply because the former cost much less than the latter: yet, it goes without saying that in offices where Portuguese and Chinese work together, much less responsibility attaches to the work performed by the latter, which more often than not is of an easy nature.

This, I think, serves to show that the methods in which the Portuguese have been, and are being, trained, are not the ones suggested by your correspondent. As you are aware, many (not to say all) of my fellow countrymen were educated in schools, whose methods, in the opinions of people who ought to know what they say, are all that can be desired; should it, however, be proved now that such methods are "old style" etc., may I respectfully suggest that your correspondent of Sunday last be asked by the powers that be to revise the same, in order that the Portuguese may in future receive a better education?

Thanking you to publish the above in your valuable paper,

I am, yours etc.,

JACINTO.

Some New Novels

THE LIMPING MAN, By Francis D. Grierson, Hodder and Stoughton, London.

This most hardened and unimaginative reader is quite willing to concede the reasonableness of having a detective appear as one of the central characters in a confessedly detective story. Why, however, the detective in fiction must always be coupled with the Doctor Watson is, to us, one of the mysteries far more engrossing and baffling than any presented in the plots of such detective stories as have so far come under our perusal.

In "The Limping Man," the detective is none other than Inspector Sims of Scotland Yard, charmingly entertaining and most undetective-like in appearance and methods of crime-hunting. His "Doctor Watson" is Professor Wells, scientist of world renown and amateur criminologist. Between them, they manage to pierce the dense mystery surrounding the sudden death of Mr. Roger Abbeymead, to recover a fabulous fortune in precious stones once the property of the Jesuit propagandists in England, and to effect the happy marriage of the heir to Abbeymead and the latter's ward. The two villains in the piece, rivals in the quest for the hidden Jesuit treasure, are properly eliminated by sudden deaths, which, however, are so cleverly manipulated as to leave the slayer's brand on no one save themselves. And at the end we are given every indication that everyone will live happily ever after.

"The Limping Man" offers good fast reading for a cold winter night. There are enough thrills to engross the attention of the average male reader, and the love theme occupies a place sufficiently prominent in the story to call forth a few "Aren't they just wonderfuls?" from the average feminine. Adverse criticism, if any, should be directed at the mechanical perfection of the plot and the absence of real surprises.

THE PARK LANE MYSTERY, By Louis Tracy, Hodder and Stoughton, London.

In this fast-moving tale, too, we have the detective duet in the persons of Winter and Furneaux, physical and mental opposites, but joined together in a Siamese-twin-like affection for each other and an intense passion for co-operation to the greatest good of their profession and the glory of Scotland Yard. The story opens as all good mystery stories should, with a dead man in our midst. The scene is unique. Thirteen men, all members of the Ace Club, are discovered in a senseless condition due to the powerful effects of a drugged punch. One of their number, the host, Anthony Coleman, is dead. It is known that one of his group of drugged friends must have killed the unfortunate Coleman. Four of the rugged men were in love with the woman Coleman was to marry shortly, and two were aware that Coleman had endowed her with his enormous wealth. A striking young army captain, Alec Stuart, is injected into the mystery against his wishes. He stays in the game to the bitter end, however, when he learns that Mary Dixon, the murdered man's fiancee, is in serious danger.

From London, the principal characters in the story, including Furneaux, the keen little Scotland Yard genius, travel to Windermere, in the Lake district. Here events move forward quickly to a thrilling climax which removes the attractive Phil Durrane, neurotic genius, from the scene by drowning, just as the evidence against him for the murder of Coleman is closed. Needless to say, the romantic element is threaded through the story, skipping about among the gory details, so that the reader is not surprised to find Mary in Stuart's arms near the last page. A good story, neatly told.

More Truth Than Poetry

BY S. E. KISER

Man is a creature of strange quirks and habits,
Brave where death-dealing missiles whirl,
His heart may be no stronger than a rabbit's,
When he is cornered by a girl.

He lets himself be fooled by politicians
Whose promises he knows are vain;
Unwilling to advance to new conditions,
He's ready always to complain.

Abhorring death, he foolishly takes chances,
He says much that he shouldn't say;
Long-lived endurance serves him when he dances,
Work makes him weary right away.

His mind is filled with strangely jumbled notions,
He turns to things he ought to shun;
A wounded pup awakes his deep emotions,
He shoots and mangles ducks for fun.

The things beyond his reach are most alluring,
He scoffs at bunk and finds it sweet;
Impulsive, discontented, long-enduring,
He cheats himself, and hates a cheat.

He likes to give advice, but seldom takes it,
Reform disturbs his soul, at first;
He wants obedience of the law, and breaks it
Lightly to quench his thirst.

Too prone to hate, too frequently mismated,
How rare a man of sound sense is!
Yet once I knew one who appreciated
A good thing while it still was his.

The Quandary Of Evolution

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

"In regard to the law of creation and destruction in nature, do 'transformism' and 'evolution' take place at the same time in everything; or does 'evolution' precede 'transformism,' or 'transformism' precede 'evolution'?—C. M. D., Detroit."

Transformism is the more general term covering several varying theories of evolution, and it is not separated from evolution in the way you assume. The two principal transformist theories are "Darwinism" and "Lamarckism," but each of these is a form of evolution. They start from different points of view. Lamarck supposed that the effects of use and of disuse caused the variations that living creatures undergo in the course of their lives and which, according to him, they transmit by heredity to their descendants, provided that both of the parents have undergone the same variation.

But Darwin affirmed that while the ultimate causes of variation are fortuitous, they become effective by means of the "struggle for existence," carried on against competition and against unfavorable conditions and surroundings in nature. The result of this struggle, he said, is "natural selection," meaning that those animals or plants whose variation has best fited them to endure through the contest will naturally survive their less fortunate rivals, and therefore, their descendants will establish a variety, or species, marked by their particular characteristics.

Darwinism denies what Lamarkism asserts, viz., that "acquired characters," that is, variations due to the effects of environment, and of use or disuse, during the life of an individual, can be transmitted to the offspring. In this respect the two evolutionary theories stand in flat contradiction to one another. Naturally one looks to facts of observation to settle the question between them; but, unfortunately, the matter cannot be quite so simply decided, for many of the facts required to be known are difficult to determine. The discussion leads to biological theories which we cannot now consider. Much depends upon the way of looking at, or of interpreting, the observed facts.

But both Lamarckism and Darwinism have, in themselves, undergone a kind of evolution. The "Neo-Drawinians" and the "Neo-Lamarckians" have each more or less amended and supplemented the ideas of the founders of the two theories for the sake of adjusting them to the results of later observations and speculations. But the theories themselves are fundamentally as far asunder as ever. That, however, does not shake the belief of scientists int he general principle of transformation, or evolution. The great question is HOW the transformations, or variations, are brought about in nature. Some of the most advanced critics affirm that neither Darwinism nor Lamarckism furnishes a satisfactory explanation.

"In a word," says Dr. J. Laumonier, "there must be evolution because there is no other scientific way to account for the succession of living beings on the surface of the earth; but neither Lamarck nor Darwin, nor any of the various transformist theories of their successors, have sufficed to discover the factors that really govern evolution, and in which its explantion must lie."

What were once regarded as the strongest pillars of the original theories have apparently been seriously undermined by such discordant facts as those revealed by what is called "mutation," whereby new characters and even sew species make their appearance suddenly, or by a leap, showing no evolutionary connection with the past. The transformation is produced without intermediate steps, and without evident cause. But, to repeat for the sake of emphasis, biologists see therein no reason to abandon the fundamental doctrine of evolution, although the development of that doctrine in the next ten or twenty years may produce great changes of viewpoint.

Unusual Arrangement of Veil Adds Final Charm to Autumn Bride

The bridal veil may be a relic of barbarism, but it's a relic that the present day fashionable bride would not wish to part with. The white veil covering the head and hair, if not the face, may be symbolic of subjection, of humility, docility and a lot of other characteristics that the modern feminist abhors, but brides of today go on wearing it. Imagine that effect of going to the altar bareheaded in these days of bobbed hair! And, of course, no hat would be appropriate with the white satin wedding gown.

The choice of the autumn in bridal headdress seems to be in favor of the Russian helmet effect. That is, a bandeau placed low on the forehead, straight across the eyebrows and rising to a peak at the top. This bandeau holds the veil, almost always of tulle, which fits closely over the hair at the top and sides. Quite frequently this helmet bandeau is made of pearl beads on a heavy framework. Or it may be of cloth of silver draped over a framework. Occasionally it is ornamented with rhinestones, and sometimes sprays of artificial orange flowers are placed at the ears.

A charming arrangement of the tulle veil, carried out at a recent wedding, gave an almost Madonna-like contour to the bride's head. The tulle was drawn simply over the head, low on the forehead, and then drawn fairly close at back and top, being held together over the ears, where small bunches of white lilies were placed. There was not a suggestion of metal, pearls, brilliants or lace about the whole headdress—only tulle and a few white blossoms.

Another unusual bridal headdress consisted of a sort of Juliette's cap of strung pearls with an edging of tulle at the front to cover the forehead. Another band of tulle passed under the chin like a wimple. And a third unusual arrangement consists of a sort of vizor front piece over the forehead, trimmed with many pearls, and over this a twisted roll of tulle suggestiong a Saracen's turban.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

BY MARY MARSHALL

AN APPLE A DAY

Apple Tapioca

Boil fine tapioca with the required amount of water in a double boiler until it is clear. Then sugar it to taste. Have ready a pudding dish full of sliced apples. Pour the tapioca mixture over them and bake for half an hour, or until the apples are tender. Remember that there must be enough sugar in the tapioca to sweeten the apples. Serve not quite cool with whipped cream.

YOUR SATURDAY'S TASKS

Even since Sunday has been a "day of rest and gladness," Saturday has been a day of baking and boiling. Even when or where there is no objection to cooking on Sunday on principal it has been customary, as a matter of convenience, to get as much of the week-end cooking out of the way on Saturday as possible.

One thing that really seems to be necessary to the smooth running of any household, however small, is to have all possible cleaning done before Saturday because it is really a difficult proposition to attend to ordering, special cooking and cleaning on the same day. There is, you know, a tendency on the part of the up-to-date young American housewife to do housekeeping intensively, crowding into two days, if possible, a variety of tasks that used to take women a whole week to accomplish. With modern convenience, it seems to them, they ought to be able to do this. But for your own comfort and satisfaction don't try to do all the cleaning and extra cooking on Saturday. If possible Saturday's tasks in the house ought to be lighter than on other days, because the men of the family usually have a half day off. One excellent way to make those men of the family want to come straight home is to have the work out of the way by the time they get there.

Among a good many people nowadays the elaborate, special dinner that used to come on Sunday is served on Saturday. This is thecustom always seemingly among middle-class English folk nowadays, who like to have a special dinner on this day when the man or men of the family get home early and have leisure to enjoy it. Sunday's dinner then consist of simpler fare, the meat stay often consisting of the cold joint left from Saturday.

LITTLE ONES EVERYWHERE
Are Being Helped by BABY'S OWN TABLETS.

Here Is Evidence From Negri Sembilan

The fame of Baby's Own Tablets—the Canadian remedy for infants and little children—spreads apace and parents living in remote parts of the world, far from the help of medical experts and city hospitals, find them of especial value as a corrective for their little ones' every day ailments.

Here is what Mr. E. de Costa, of the Land Office, Kuala Pilah, Negri Sembilan, says about them:—"I have used Baby's Own Tablets for my children for over a year and have found them most satisfactory. I have also given the Tablets to friends for their children with very good results."

Baby's Own Tablets should be kept ready at hand in every home where there are infants and young children, for they correct infantile indigestion, constipation, constipation, colic, 'wind', check diarrhoea and vomiting, expel worms, make teething easy, quiet the nerves and quickly bring restful health-giving sleep in a natural way. They are guaranteed harmless even to the youngest and most delicate babe. Chemists sell them, or post free 60 cents the vial, from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 60 Kiangse Road, Shanghai.
